Visitors Here To Witness 82nd Annual Graduation

Visiting celebrities, parents, friends and relatives are seen on the Brigham Young University campus this week in expectation of the 1957 graduation Friday.

Baccalaureate procession will begin at the Maeser Building at 7 p. m. Thursday and proceed to the South Fieldhouse.

Elder Marion G. Romney, member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will give the baccalaureate sermon.

Services of the 82nd annual graduation, largest in the history of BYU, will begin Friday evening with the academic procession led by the Board of Trustees.

Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture producer, will deliver the commencement address.

Valedictorian William Larsen, an English major from Waynesboro, N. C., will also address the graduates.

The senior breakfast, sponsored by the Junior Class, will begin at 7:30 a. m. Friday. Seniors planning to attend should obtain tickets immediately in the Student Coordinator's office, Clark Student Service Center.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson will receive graduates, friends and faculty in his home at 3 p. m. Friday.

More than 1000 students will receive degrees. Lucile Spencer, registrar, states that 993 students will receive bachelor's degrees and 47 will receive master's degrees.

Graduation To Include Honor Degree Awards

The Board of Trustees of Brigham Young University announced today it will award four honorary doctoral degrees at commencement exercises Friday in Smith Fieldhouse.

Recipients and the degrees to be conferred are:

Cecil B. deMille, producer of many of the world's greatest motion picture classics, doctor of letters.

Glen E. Nielson, president of Husky Oil Company, national leader in American petroleum industry groups, civic leader, and president of Big Horn Stake Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, doctor of science.

Merrill N. Warnick of Pleasant Grove, immediate past president of the American Dairy Association for four years and former president of Timpanogos LDS Stake, doctor of public services.

Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, president of Brigham Young University and noted attorney, doctor of laws.

The commencement address will be delivered by Mr. deMille. He will discuss "Law, Liberty and Light." The academic procession of graduates, faculty, board of trustees and honored guests in cap and gown will begin from the Maeser Building at 7 p.m. and commencement services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Baccalaureate services will be conducted Thursday, with the procession and exercises at the same times. Baccalaureate sermon will be given by Marion G. Romney, member of the Council of Twelve Apostles of the LDS Church.

Student Heads Receive Honor Awards

"Most Efficient Student" awards were presented to Monroe McKay and Pat Edwards by the Chamber of Commerce during Salute to Honor program Wednesday.

Wesley P. Lloyd, dean of students, announced the winners and Max Eliot, Chamber of Commerce president, presented McKay and Miss Edwards with Bulova wristwatches.

Awards were based on the accumulated grade point average of 3.75 with straight A's winter quarter.

McKay was honored because of his activities as studentbody president, dorm parent, member of Phi Kappa Phi and president of Campus Branch.

Miss Edwards' activities include Y Calcares "treasurer, White Key president, Junior advisor of Spurs, member of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Kappa Phi, and a member of the BYU Stake Sunday School Board.

Salute, Safety Warning Given

Dear Fellow Students:

As we approach the end of the term, I wish to extend to the studentbody my congratulations on your accomplishments this year and best wishes for your success and happiness. In many ways this has been an outstanding year, marked by improved scholarship, outstanding teams, both athletic and academic, and exceptional activity.

I shall ever be grateful to this studentbody for your fasting and prayers in my behalf during my recent illness. Your prayers were answered and I shall always remember your devotion and faith.

Now, as you leave the campus, please use wisdom and caution in your journeys back to your homes. The university has been saddened during the last two years by two terrible accidents involving students returning home. In one of these, four students were killed and one seriously injured; in the other, three students were killed and three seriously injured. Do not drive faster than safety dictates; do not drive at night; do not take chances on the highway. Be sure your reunion with your family will be joyful, not saddened.

To the graduating seniors I extend my blessings and best wishes for your continued success and happiness. To the freshmen, sophomores and juniors, I wish a pleasant and profitable summer and hope to see you here again next autumn.

Faithfully and sincerely yours,
Ernest L. Wilkinson,
President

WITH A SIGH

Publishing a campus daily builds up a certain amount of tension for the approximately 30 people who've been responsible for a Daily Universe in distribution boxes every school day for a year. In fact for some of us finals are a welcome relief.

BIGGER NEXT YEAR

However, with the years' final issue one can't help but feel a sense of accomplishment will be imbued with the hope that next year's paper will be a bigger one and more capable of handling the vast amount of news available on Brigham Young University campus.

Drama and music critics now rest their cutting pens for another foray next year while the sports scribes already anxiously await the grand resurrection of BYU football in the fall.

Teletype halts its once incessant. Winchell-Quatter and research-paper weary reporters no longer fear the requests of editors wondering where the next news story will come from.

LOOK TO FUTURE

Reminiscing about 16-page Homecoming issues, various successful campaigns and even the shopping guides brings a warm feeling of pride responsible. However, as it is the nature of us, thoughts are towards the future.

Issues on campus are, in late May, looking back over shoulders. at accomplishments and applauding successful projects and sounded a warning of big things to come.

Back to the drama department can look back to a year of outstanding productions, but stop think twice before casting faculty members in lead rolls.

STUDENT GOVT. STRONGER

Student government also received a shot in the arm tnith a new constitution which, although far from 100 per cent, is quite a few percentage points ahead of the old one. Student government will probably hold more sway than ever before, which is a sign of a better BYU.

Senators still dislike they press clippings, but comparison will prove that this body has improved, and although they will continue to be jabbed with the printed word when necessary, next year the senate should be on much more solid footing and a very necessary portion of student government.

The school is headed by pulling sports up to the desired caliber, and if kept at a sane level, they will become even more successful salesmen of the university.

In generhl, a lot of stray pieces are being picked up and aligned.

CLARK'S GREAT SHOWS

Herald R. Clark's success in bringing only the greatest of artists and musical organizations to Provo cannot be underestimated.

A thought for social units . . . Keep your public relations up.

And finally, with many bouquets and thorny crowns left over, a sincere pat on the back to Dean McKay's Monroe and his cohorts on the executive council who had their rocky moments but didn't ever take a step backward.

Execs Say Farewell

No one owes more to Brigham Young University and its student body than those of us who have had an opportunity to hold positions of responsibility.

We want to take this opportunity to express formally what we have felt all year. The student body has made it possible for us to be proud to represent them in our many contacts with other schools.

We have been especially proud of your high standard of conduct, your strong unity, your willingness to serve, your loyalty to each other and administration, your friendliness which is lavish, and your unlimited talent which you generously share.

It has been thrilling to be a part of BYU at a time of such great challenge. We know also the administration and the board of trustees are men of vision. We know that the students have had and will continue to meet the challenges that rapid expansion presents.

To the presidency, to Dean Lloyd, to Dr. Isaksen, and to the thousands of others who have been so patient and helpful to us this year, we express our deepest thanks.

May God bless all of you who have made BYU the wonderful place it is. We will always be looking for news of you and BYU.

Explanation

Dear Editor:

Due to the fact that certain letters have been written casting some light upon the reputation and character of myself and those who work with me in the show program of the student-body, I feel it necessary to make public facts known.

Be it known that the Central Dance Committee has spent as much or more time helping to plan and direct the short-term dances as it has spent on many student-body dances than any other studentbody committee.

They have a thankless job at times and they deserve a thanks from the Studentbody for all the work they have done to see that you students have dances. Thanks to the Central Dance Committee and the director, Bob Anderson.

The social revolving fund as critics have alluded to seems in the red. There are five reasons why and they are as follows.

1. No financial reports

2. Limited use of the fieldhouse

3. Extra hall cost

4. Extra ticket taking and ushering cost

5 Extra band cost

In order to know how a dance turned out a necessary for us to have a report of the following information: The attendance.

The receipts, 3 The expenditures.

Without this information it is impossible to know in what direction we are going. Many special requests have been made for this, without enough time to school year. Some of those requests finally came through at the end of the Winter Quarter, at the end of the dance season.

If the fellows does not get to know who are directly responsible for making out these financial reports they should. I have been called I receive some false information from a few various administration when the truth is necessary for the good of the student body. Let us Especially do we appreciate those who responded on the

The fieldhouse was used this year one third less than last year. Many requests have been made for at least the past two years and many more for additional use of the fieldhouse but no change in policy. However in the recent studentboard President Taylor gave the studentbody the assurance that the fieldhouse can be used more frequently in the future.

Since we have not been able to use the fieldhouse we have been forced into other halls and some of which have had to be rented, making the extra halls have increased the dance cost.

More halls require more bands.

Compare the cost of putting on a dance in one hall and one using one band with three or four halls and three or four bands. The total cost of a single band on a Saturday night is $160.

I am in no way trying to condemn anyone for not doing their job because if things were tully looked into we would see some very valid excuses

Another reason why the revolving fund is in the red is the fact that I have failed to see that those who were ultimately responsible for getting the above mentioned reports were made out.

Even though the revolving fund is in the red the money student budget is well in the black.

It would be a good thing if those who write editorials and letters to the editor would get all the facts instead of sending an axe with only half the handle.

My appreciation and thanks to all those who have worked on the Central Dance Evaluation Committee.

Darrel P. Walker

Thanks

Dear Editor:

We take this opportunity to thank all of those who spontaneously cooperated to entertain the Philadelphia Orchestra members and their wives. Especially do we appreciate those who responded on the spur of the moment to set our guests sightseeing up Provo Canyon and who returned the musicians safely to their chartered bus at the conclusion.

We heard many musicians speaking in flowery terms of BYU hospitality. One violinist commented, "this day has been unprecedented." To those who have helped make it possible,

IT'S YOUR LIFE

School's out again, and it's time for three or four Brigham Young University students to die.

FOUR DIE

Last spring four students died when their car failed to negotiate a cure on a New Mexico highway. And Christmas time three more students were killed when their car rammed into a hay truck near Mesquite, Nev.

Before the summer vacation's over, BYU's Daily Universe ran a series of cartoons, editorials and news stories pleading with students to drive with more reverence to their homes. University officials begged students to be careful on "that trip home."

Perhaps many drivers paid heed to the appeal. But apparently there is always at least one who does not. He's the guy who thinks nothing like that will ever happen to him. He's the guy who takes two other persons to their death with him The law of average makes it that way. Guess there's nothing we can do about it.

WHO THIS TIME?

Wonder who it'll be this time; a resident of D-4? . . . maybe the fellow in Penrose Hall? . . . a couple leaving BYU on their honeymoon? . . . a student taking Math 11? Right now it's pretty hard to say just who Grass Diane's on the warning list though. Nothing we can do about it anyway.

It's 800 miles from here to Los Angeles, but we've traveled that route in 12 hours. Don't worry about those thin tires when you speedometer hits 90 mph. All you have to watch out for is the gas. Be cookstory carefree of those nasty radar traps. No sense in having to stop off and pay a fine at somp justice of the peace.

Remember, you're much too good a driver to have a wreck and kill somebody. Those to be safety drivers are those over 12. how they're as safe as a baby in it's crib.

LAW OF AVERAGES

But what about the law of average. Where do the victims come from who may a supposedly untrue law hold true?

Last year's victims were people who received warnings presented in the Daily Universe just like you are now. They were people who loved life and wanted to live. But they found themselves caught in the law of average. Nothing they could do about it. Guess there's nothing anybody can do. Just hope for the best. —RAY TRAU

Track season has come and gone with as much ease as BYU spikesters have disposed of all their opponents. Toppling off a perfect season was the third consecutive conference championship.

This is the time of the year when bouquets are being handed out, and we would like to pass some out ourselves. First one goes to Coach Clarence Robson for guiding the endermen to their laurels. Next goes a pat to every member of this year's championship team who put in long hours of practice and worked together to down foe after foe.

Robbie is losing many to trackmen via graduation, and this year's starting enderman crew will have to fill a lot of shoes come next spring, and many of those shoes are big ones to fill.

The loss will be felt especially in the 440, as Arlyn Finlinson and Jay Crittenden leave. Finlinson has been in the limelight for four years at BYU. He started out as an 880 man and set a conference record in that event.

The likeable Finlinson is presently holder of the Skyline 440 mark and one of the top quartermilers in the country. Finishing behind the 440 ace, and not too far behind, has been Jim Crittenden, who ran a 47.8 at the conference meet.

Crittenden could be the top quartermiler on any other school in the conference, and he is always picking up those valuable points for the Cougars.

The Cats have hung up their spikes for another year, and the time has come for us to put the cover on the typewriter and bid good adieu.

With a very successful spring sporting campaign completed Cougar fans and Cougar athletes will take a deep breath and (calmly?) wait for next fall and football.

In past years there hasn't been much to look forward to. It's no secret, college football, Cougar style, in past years has been frustrating, to say the least.

BYU is starving for good football! This was never more apparent than in the heartbreaking win over New Mexico last fall. With snow falling on a cold wet afternoon and the Cougar lead so great the outcome was certain long before the final gun sounded, virtually no one left the stands until the last play. Even in that weather fans were reluctant to leave the scene of unfamiliar triumph.

If last year's freshman team and this spring's blue-white game are any indication, Coach Harold Kopp and his boys (meaning team and staff) finally have things on the uphill trend. Kopp is reluctant to predict a championship team, for next season anyway, but with conservative optimism we can look for next fall's club to win half their games and will be a huge strde forward.

Coming from a 0-7 start against the Utah Redskins in the first match of the season, a game Cougar net squad fought their way to first place tie in the Western Division, and second place in the Skyline conference.

Coach Dick Dixon rounded the rough edges off the team and came up with a squad that came within one point of the highly touted Redskins.

Graduating seniors will deplete the ranks, but Coach Dixon says he has a good group of freshmen and upperclassmen to take over the 1958 reins.

After winning the Western Division the 1956 Skyline Golf championship squad was favored to take the combined meet in Fort Collins last Saturday; however, the Cats were edged out by Utah, Colorado A&M, and the winning New Mexico team.

"All is not done," said Dixon. Since the National College Tennis tournament will be held in Salt Lake, and the national golf tourney slated for Colorado Springs early in the summer,

Major League Leaders Surprise 'Expert' Picks

It's very surprising to me to see the Chicago White Sox picked by many to come in first in the American league, in first place. It's also a surprise to me Cincinnati, picked by many to third, to be in first after a reerable start.
